TEXTURE TIME

The general consensus in fashion is that if you want to butch things up, go for tough and rugged textures. If you want to go preppy, opt for the gentler surface details. Metal is too hard, but a light denim wash is acceptable. Other fun options include lightweight cable knits or thin split leathers like suede. These can go sporty or preppy without getting too edgy. A microprint can also help create the illusion of texture, but you don't want to overdo it here.

OLD SIDE

Take your style roar

Leopard print took a hard kick in the '80s when term 'pimp' iconography picked mama nature's little doodles into the trial sex trade. In truth, leopard print was African long before this, and long before came New Jersey's firm for the sleaziest 'es' and housewives' s. As such, it is the of African men to re-less and redefine what essentially one of Africa's test luxuries: its wildlife. We do this not only a vibrant mixture of leopard print in apparel accessories, but also igh the use of fine ers (crocodile, ostrich, furs and feathers – e have great cultural e in the traditional an context.

The look can be dressed or leisure and luxury, or n for an edgier ready-ear look. Be careful o go overboard – in context, less (relatively king) is more. ■
