TEXTURE TIME

The general consensus in fashion is that if you want to butch things up, go for tough and rugged textures. If you want to go preppy, opt for the gentler surface details. Metal is too hard, but a light denim wash is acceptable. Other fun options include lightweight cable knits or thin split leathers like suede. These can go sporty or preppy without getting too edgy. A microprint can also help create the illusion of texture, but you don't want to overdo it here.

OLD SIDE

Animal

Like your style roar

Animal print took a hard kick in the '80s when term 'pimp' iconography poked mama nature's little doodles into the viral sex trade. In truth, animal print was African long before this, and long before came New Jersey's firm for the sleaziest
'es' and housewives'
s. As such, it is the
of African men to redress and redefine what essentially one of Africa's test luxuries: its wildlife.
We do this not only a vibrant mixture of animal print in apparel accessories, but also though the use of fine
furs (crocodile, ostrich, furs and feathers –
we have great cultural in the traditional an context.

The look can be dressed for leisure and luxury, or for an edgier ready-wear look. Be careful to go overboard – in context, less (relatively sparing) is more. ■
