REDEFINED LINER

Now's the perfect time to explore the playful nature of liner. Kolly went straight for an emerald green shade and mixed it with a touch of water to intensify the shadow. When mixed with water, the powder texture assumes a cream-like consistency which can be used as a liner with a bolder colour pay-off. Use this to line along the upper eyelids, then extend the lines just under the browbones for interesting definition of the eye shape.

OCEAN EYES

With blue eyeshadow making an unapologetic comeback this summer, teal is a head-turning alternative. Work an oceanic-toned pencil across the entire eyelid and use a fluffy brush to buff the colour in. 'This will blur the edges and give you a modern, matte finish,' says Kelly. Keep the colour on the top, as bringing it to the lower lashline could look more like an injury, she warns. For a metallic evening finish, layer over another shade of blue with a sheen to it. Keep things modern and skip the liner, but don't forget to define the eyes with lots of mascara.
