Our skin is affected by stress, pollution, dry air and harsh sunlight on a daily basis. What's more, free radicals are emitted in the cellular process when they're exposed to these harmful elements. This causes cell dysfunction in a process called oxidation, which causes a myriad of skin concerns, including premature ageing, acne, dehydration and sensitivity. Antioxidants occur naturally in foods and neutralise harmful free radicals, keeping skin at a prime balance. Look out for these power-packing ingredients when next you peruse the beauty shelves.
